

To: Stoner, Nancy[Stoner.Nancy@epa.gov]
From: National Wildlife Federation
Sent: Sat 3/22/2014 10:00:44 AM
Subject: Great News for Alaska's Salmon and Grizzlies!

Great News for Alaska's Salmon and Grizzlies!

Environmental Protection Agency recently announced plans to protect Alaska's Bristol Bay from the proposed Pebble Mine.

Join this critical fight for our wildlife to the finish line.

Grizzly Bears Coming to a Pond Near You

ross the country, frogs are mping into spring.

celebrate with these fun frogs.

Congress Protects Wilderness for First Time in 5 Years

Congress acted this month to designate 32,500 acres of Sleeping Bear Dunes National Lakeshore as protected wilderness.

Speak up to protect other crucial wilderness areas for wildlife.

Give Yellowstone Bison a Year-Round Buffer

ne

Every spring, Yellowstone bison are harassed, captured and killed when they venture beyond Yellowstone.

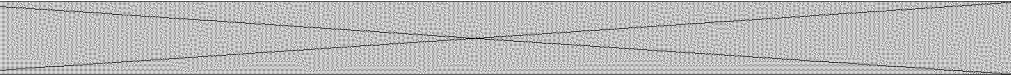

As a part of getting bison more room to safely roam.

An Epic Battle Between Two Bobcats

A Florida woman recently captured amazing pictures of two bobcats sparring in Everglades

National Park.

See these unique wildlife photos.

Climate Change Threatens College Mascots

Three top-seeded basketball teams in the NCAA Basketball tournament have mascots threatened by climate change.

Find out what the real-world counterparts of many college mascots are facing.

IP | SHOP NWF | FORWARD TO A FRIEND

© 2014 National Wildlife Federation — All rights reserved
P.O. Box 1583, Merrifield VA

1 16-1583 | 800-822-9919
www.nwf.org | Privacy Policy |
Contact Us
subscribe